Hearing is one of the most important tools of the audio professional. We spend countless hours and dollars calibrating and maintaining the equipment we use in our trade, yet too often, we do nothing to protect and maintain our hearing.

Join us for an evening of education and discussion on the physiology of hearing and protecting the two most important tools we have, our ears. Then we'll look at steps we can take to prevent hearing loss, how hearing loss is measured, and what options are available to treat hearing loss.

Dr. Lori Mercer earned her Doctorate degree in Audiology from the Arizona School of Health Sciences. She has practiced audiology since 1987, and currently operates her own private practice at Northgate Hearing Services in Seattle's Northgate area. She is a member of the Academy of Dispensing Audiologists, the American Speech Language and Hearing Association, the Washington Society of Audiology, and the Washington Audiology Alliance.

Our meetings are open to anyone interested in Audio. AES membership is NOT required for you to attend our meetings.
